The Molly Maguires Unearthed.

LOCUST GAP, Pa., Sept. 19.—In the out lying districts of Schuylkill, Luzerne, Northumberland, Carbon, Lehigh, Wyoming and Lackawanna regions the coal and iron police as well as members of the detective corps, have discovered unmistakable evidence of the existence of lodges of the notorious brotherhood of Molly Maguires. Centralia, Mt. Carmel, Girardville, Coal Hill, Tamaqua, Locust Gap, Dark Corners, Coal Ridge, Summit, and all patches about Broad Top mountain, from Mahoney City to Ashland, in one direction, and from Shenandoah to Black Creek and Quakertown, have divisions of the oath-bound organization and regular meetings are secretly held in the mountain fastnesses.

Interviews with various police and detective officers develop the fact that the statements relative to the organization of the infamous society are true. A number of prominent citizens, railroad operators and mine bosses have been threatened and their names placed upon the Molly Maguire death list and their annihilation set down for the near future. While there is no direct evidence to convict the Molly Maguires with recent murders, certain circumstances connecting direct suspicion towards them. The recent mysterious incendiary burnings of colliery property in different sections of the coal country is attributed to the brotherhood.

Jacobson's Jugular Jerked.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Isaac Jacobson was hanged in the county jail here today at three minutes after the noon hour. The prisoner passed a quiet night, retiring at ten o'clock and sleeping till five, when he arose and eat a light breakfast. He walked composedly to the scaffold. No hitch occurred in any of the sheriff's arrangements. The condemned man's neck was broken by the fall.

The crime for which Jacobson was hung occurred April 29, 1884. On the morning of that day he stepped quickly up to George Bedell, his former employer, and drawing a revolver shot him in the head. His victim died the following day. Bedell had discharged Jacobson on the account of drunkenness. When he paid him off there was a dispute as to the amount due, Jacobson claiming one dollar in addition to the amount paid him. He went away purchased a revolver reappeared the next morning and committed the deed without any warning whatever. He asserted that he was entirely responsible for his act.

Fires.

PENECTANGUISHNE, Ont., Sept. 19.—Seven stores in Enterprise and Arcade blocks burned. Loss, $40,000.

A FLOURING MILL DESTROYED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The big flouring mill of William H. Payne, on 129th street, was destroyed by fire this morning. Loss, $60,000; covered by a considerable amount of insurance. On the second floor of the mill were the offices of three local newspapers, all of which, with their contents, were destroyed.

A HUMAN SACRIFICE.

TOLEDO, Sept. 19.—At a fire in the dwelling of Joseph Bylow, in East Toledo, this morning, a daughter, eight years of age, perished in the flames. His wife and infant child were badly burned.

Notes From the Fields of War.

CALIFORNIA, Sept. 19.—Two more telegrams have been received from General Gordon. He complains of the slowness of the authorities in sending the relief expedition and states that the number of rebels besetting Khartoum is increasing.

CHINA PLAYING FOR TIME.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—The Voltaire says that China is indirectly trying to resume negotiations with France. M. Patonotre, the French minister to China, has asked Prime Minister Ferry what attitude to assume in case China adopts a more direct course, and he will be informed that Chinese overtures should be received with extreme caution, as it is not believed they are in earnest but only maneuvering for the sake of gaining time.

CHINA PLAYING FOR TIME.

DUBLIN, Sept. 19.—The municipal authorities at Limerick have finally resolved not to pay the extra police tax or send a deputation to Earl Spencer, lord lieutenant of Ireland, whom they denounce as tyrant. The extra police were appointed by the government on the plan that the local authorities did not furnish sufficient protection against outrages and the cost of their maintenance was assessed upon the communities to which they were assigned.

Killed by a Bull.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 19.—Great excitement exists in Amherst county over an unprovoked murder. Last night Sam Mitchell, a sixteen-year-old boy, in company with two other boys, were out in search of cows. When they arrived at a hunter's camp in the woods, occupied by three men, George Fortune, one of the men, ordered Mitchell to carry a beer keg for him. The boy refused and Fortune shot him dead in his tracks.

Eddy's Edge.

Literally Unto the Policy and Leader of the Republican Party Into Pieces.

Two Great Battles Coming—Local Meetings and Gossip.

HON. ARTHUR J. EDY, of Flint, Mich., made a master address at the Academy of Music last night. At eight o'clock a detachment of the uniformed Jeffersonians, headed by the city band, escorted Mr. Eddy to the hall, where he addressed 500 people. The young gentleman has a pleasing address and in his best style punctured the republican policy and its Mulligan chieftain. He unsparingly scored the Maine statesman on his foreign policy, especially for his neglect of the cause of imprisoned Irishmen. The war and congressional record of Blaine was scathingly reviewed and rebuked and then the speaker closed by defining the cause of labor, crushed and squeezed by grasping monopolists, whose soulless greed for money has induced them to import contract labor from Europe that they might better combat striking American workmen. The speech closed amidst the best of feeling.

COMING RALLIES.

The next great rally here will be next Tuesday evening, when Messrs. Hendricks, Hord and Kern return from Pleasant Lake. Monday evening Mr. Hendricks comes here and will be escorted from the depot to the Aveline house by the Jeffersonian club.

The afternoon of October 7, Hon. Isaac P. Gray and Hon. W. H. Calkins, the opposing candidates for governor, will hold a joint discussion here. In the evening of that day Hon. D. W. Voorhees and Hon. F. C. McNutt will address the citizens of Fort Wayne and vicinity on the issues of the day. Mr. Voorhees is the great champion of Irishmen and the soldiers and he will be tendered an ovation.

LOCAL GOSSIP.

J. M. Robinson, S. M. Kidd and C. W. Edsall addressed a big meeting in Adams township, last night. To-morrow evening hickory poles will be raised by Leo, Dunfee and Emerick's Crossing.

The Great State Senator.

For months past the holding of a state senatorial here has been discussed and so general has been the encouragement that at Arion Hall the Seengerlund and Arion societies held a joint meeting to make the preliminary arrangements for the state fest. Mr. J. George Strode, presided and H. Zur Muhlen acted as secretary. The following officers were elected to arrange for the great event:

President—C. A. Zollinger.

Vice Presidents—Henry Berghoff and A. Louis Griebel.

Secretary—John P. Guzner.

Treasurer—Charles Huffman.

Financial Secretary—Otto Herbst.

Trustees, Wm. Hohn, Fred Rath, Chris Wenninghoff. There will be some twenty singing societies or bands present to participate, including two each from Indianapolis and Fort Wayne and one each from Richmond, Evansville, New Albany, Terre Haute, South Bend and Lafayette.

Blaine's Connection with the Hocking Valley Coal Mines Fully Explained—Its Effect.

The Women's Nominee for Vice President Sees no Necessity to Pose as a Martyr.

And in a Very Polite Card Declines the Honor—A Noteworthy Occasion.

Blaine and the Miners.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 19.—There is great excitement among miners of the Hocking valley over the discovery that James G. Blaine is the leading spirit of one of the coal syndicates that is just now engaged in starving its miners and importing pauper laborers to take their places. Of course, the democrats are exceedingly jubilant and are sowing documents on all sides. The disclosures are made through the discovery of copies of the Cleveland Herald, a republican newspaper, of December 19, 1883. This issue contains a special dispatch from New York, which says:

Inquiries about the Standard coal and oil company have been set on foot here, by the dispatch from Columbus, saying that the company had made an assignment there. According to Bradstreet's reports, the company was incorporated eighteen months ago with an organized capital of $25,000,000. Thirty thousand acres of mineral land in the Hocking valley was purchased and $2,000,000 spent in opening up and equipping a small part of the property. Several iron companies were bought up and it was the evident design to absorb the various companies of the valley and control the business and production there.

A. D. Lee, of Norwalk, Ohio, was the original promoter of the schemes; among the directors were James G. Blaine, Eugene Hale, of Maine, and Gov. Charles Foster, of Ohio. The company was finally organized under the name of the Ohio and Western Coal and Iron Company, the capital stock fixed at $5,000,000, and all the old stock wiped out.

It is, perhaps, needless to say that the Hocking and other mining regions will be flooded with campaign literature, showing up Blaine's connection with these syndicates. Their political effect must not be underestimated, for enraged miners are ready to eternally blare any one interested as a capitalist in the syndicate who leave them the alternative of working at pauper wages or going with their families to the streets.

"The returns seem to have been a little mixed—Burn this letter"—Blaine to Logan.

It is now in order for young Mr. Walter Blaine to send another telegram about that majority in Maine to Jack Logan. There is sufficient material for a message.

Judge Gresham said that there "is nothing in Calkins." The judge has at least made one decision which will never be reversed.

It has been suggested that "My Dear Fisher" did not whitewash Blaine in 1876, as requested, but instead is employing charcoal for that purpose this year.

The Rev Dr. Samuel F. Smith, the author of the American national hymn, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," recently celebrated with his good wife at Newton Centre, Mass., their golden wedding.

Does any gentleman in the United States, asks the New York World, hold in his possession a compromising letter from Grover Cleveland bearing the solemn injunction, "Burn this letter?" We think not.

The wages of the men employed on Blaine's coal lands in Western Pennsylvania is sixty cents a day each. They are Hungarians and Scandinavians, imported on contract to drive out Irish miners, who insist on more than starvation wages.

AMERICAN farmers, after supplying the home demand, says the Million, now have a bigger surplus of breadstuffs in three years—for which they must find a foreign market or none—than they did in any forty years before the war. They also pay twice as much tariff on the goods they get in return. Their tariff burden has therefore increased to twenty-six times its ante-bellum dimensions on the total value of their surplus breadstuffs alone.

AMONG the proofs of the swindling operations and the thievery which have characterized the republican rule for the past twenty-three years, it may be stated that four years ago Senator Davis, of West Virginia, when chairman of the committee on appropriations of the senate, overhauled thoroughly all the accounts of the treasury department. He forced from unwilling witnesses, all of whom were officers of the treasury, the testimony that there were 13,000 erasures on the treasurer's book, and millions of dollars entered so as to make the books balance without a single item to show when the entries were so made or what had become of the money.

EVERYBODY is well aware that no party in this country is asking or has ever asked for free trade. Mr. Blaine knows it and so wrote it in his little book, "Twenty Years in Congress," volume one, page 208, where he says, "Strictly, there has never been a proposition by any party in the United States for the adoption of free trade."

MOTTOES for republican transparency:

"Burn this letter."
"I have endeavored in writing not to be indecent."
"I will sacrifice a great deal to get a settlement."
"It will be in my power to cast an anchor to windward in your behalf."

"No one will ever know from me that I have disposed of a single dollar in Maine."

"I want you to send me a letter such as the enclosed draft. It will be a favor I shall never forget."

"Regard this letter as strictly confidential; do not show it to any one. The draft is in the hands of my clerk, who is as trustworthy as any man can be."

This difference in methods of rulers and their results was strikingly illustrated in Europe a few days ago. At the meeting of the three emperors a large detachment of troops was detailed to guard them, and no one was permitted to enter the grounds without written permission. The guard moved about with their majesties and kept the crowd at a distance, for fear of attempts at assassination. At the same time down in sunny Italy, King Humbert was going about from house to house ministering to the wants of the cholera sufferers, exposing himself to the disease with reckless impunity in his endeavors to do good. The contrast is very strong.

REPUBLICAN organs point the laboring men of the country to the republican party as their savior and ask their help to elect another republican president. This is the old cry which has been repeated year after year or as often as the republican party came before the people for their suffrages. They acknowledge that the condition of workingmen should be bettered and promise them relief. If the laboring men of this country are not prosperous, have not sufficient work to provide the necessities of life whose fault can it be. The republican party has long held control of the government, has brought about this condition of affairs and under its administration it has continued to grow worse. Under these circumstances it would be ruinous to vote for a continuance of the same policy.

We to-day present a fac-simile of the now famous Calkins assessment letter which he addressed to Mrs. Duncan, the widow postmistress, at Westville, LaPorte county. The genuineness of this letter has never been denied and Calkins has said that "it may have been sent." Its existence proves the measures which he has resorted to in the race for office. He has assessed a postmistress in a petty office $12, in open violation of law, and because she refused to pay the assessment in order that Calkins might obtain $5,000 a year, she was removed from office. The loss of the office caused the loss of her home, on which payments were yet due and on which she had expended a large sum, which she lost. Mr. Duncan is the widow of a soldier and defies Calkins to disprove her charge in this matter. She is a member of the same church as Calkins, the Methodist, and her character is vouched for by its members. At the time of her removal and at the present she is supporting a large family dependent entirely upon her exertions. This act should alone be enough to forever retire Calkins from the political field. No more need be said in regard to the letter, it speaks for itself, except that it was probably written from a draft furnished which accounts for the "dear sir" etc. The signature and "yours respectfully" are, as asserted, from Calkins himself. Read the letter.

It was announced at the time of Blaine's nomination that this would be an aggressive campaign, that the great and gifted man from Maine would magnetize the people, and that when the time came for the men of the nation to cast their ballots, it would be like a whirlwind sweeping from ocean to ocean, so great would be the stampede towards the nominees of the republican party. The campaign is now well under way and there is no evidence of this Blaine whirlwind as yet. It has been an aggressive campaign but the aggressiveness has come from the opposite quarters. Blaine has been denounced by more men in his own party than any other presidential nominee in the history of the country. His most bitter enemies are republicans and such men whose honesty and sincerity are beyond dispute. He is attacked on every hand, and is forced to make pilgrimages from post to post in order to "magnetize" the people by his presence. He has been forced to adopt measures unheard of in any previous canvass to advance his interests and in spite of all this, to-day his supporters cannot truthfully assert that he is absolutely certain to obtain the electoral vote of any state in the union. True, several states are expected to go republican, but there is scarcely one which is not divided and whose vote is not largely in doubt. And this is Blaine's aggressive campaign.

The Man Who Assesses Widows to Obtain Office.

COMMITTEE ON ELECTIONS,

House of Representatives,

117 York St., Sept 26, 1884.

Dear Sir:

Inasmuch as the expenses of the Congressional Campaign will be very great, and my opponent will spend a great deal of money, I shall be glad if you will contribute to Mr. Aaron Jones, Chairman of the Congressional Committee, at South Bend, the sum of $17.00 to be used for legitimate Campaign expense only. In order to be of any use the money should be sent immediately.

Yours Respectfully,

A. H. Calkins
